Terms and conditions concerning a subscription to HotelPress

1. This agreement including the delivery, receipt and payment of editorial and visual content associated therewith becomes legally binding to both parties to the contract by written confirmation of the subscription or through transfer of such content to the hotel. This is not applicable to the sample subscription.
2. The subscription fee will be paid monthly upon invoice. There will be no increases in costs during an active contract. All payments exclude the legally required value added tax.
3. Except if separately specified the address of the subscriber is also considered the account address.
4. Except if specified separately, the subscribed data files may be printed as often as desired by the recipient. However the subscriber has no additional rights of utilization and may not make any data received available to third parties (e.g. Via e-mail, newsletter) or publish them in any other form (e.g. on the internet).
5. 4media Verlag GmbH has to be notified in writing of any change to or cancellation of a subscription. A cancellation prior to a subscription contract having expired is not possible.
6. 4media Verlag GmbH can only guarantee a timely realization of any request for changes to the terms and conditions of a contract (including method of payment) if such request was received at least ten days in advance of the desired date of implementation.
7. Any transfer of the daily data supplied by HotelPress occurs via e-mail or through downloads availed on the internet. Given the vagaries of the internet the publisher has no influence on a reliable transfer of data through the internet. As such the publisher is not responsible for the availability, reliability and quality of any telecommunication or data networks, or technical equipment. In this regard the publisher is not liable for any failures that are beyond its control and will not reimburse any payments in case of such failures. Problems relating to a transfer of data are to be brought to the attention of the publisher immediately. In case of data being supplied either late or not at all as well as in case of errors in the content supplied, 4media Verlag GmbH is only liable in case of negligence or malicious intent. Any HotelPress editions that are supplied late or not at all cannot be compensated.
8. In case of competitions or lotteries contained in newspapers terms and conditions apply.
9. Any data on subscribers collected by HotelPress for administrative purposes is treated confidentially and subject to relevant laws on privacy.
10. In the case of editing and publishing editorial content supplied by subscribers the usual precautions applicable will be observed. Unless specified differently the exchange of all data relating to editorial content occurs electronically.
11. All editorial matter (including photographs) generated and supplied by the subscriber to HotelPress for publication exempts the publisher from any liability relating to the accuracy as well as the date of publication of the information provided. As such the publisher cannot assume any liability for editorial content provided. Furthermore the subscriber guarantees that he holds all rights relating to the publication of any editorial content provided.
12. Domicile of 4media Verlag GmbH is Edertal. In the event of any dispute in business dealings with qualified merchants, a legal person under public law or a public law entity with special funds the parties agree that the domicile of 4media Verlag GmbH shall be the place of jurisdiction. All claims out of this contract fall under the laws of the Federal Republic of Germany.
